

Restaurant & Food Service Management

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Restaurant and Food Service Management program is designed for students who want to get their basic kitchen training and focus more on the business side of things to manage or own their own foodservice operation. Furthermore, students in the Food Service Specialist program might choose this specialty area to attain their associate in applied science degree with a second year of study. Finally, students with an associate in applied science degree in Culinary Arts, or significant transfer credit, often pursue this degree as well in order to make themselves more marketable.

Graduates will have the opportunity to become certified in the areas of ServSafe Sanitation through the Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association and Food and Beverage Management through the Educational Institute of the American Hotel and Lodging Association Educational Institute.

KEY LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Graduates with an associate in applied science degree will be able to perform at mid-level positions and supervisory positions in the areas of restaurant management. A Classical French foundation will guide graduates through their practical hands-on kitchen training which includes American Regional Cuisine in their first year. The second year of the program focuses on business classes to round out the training. Graduates will:

- create professional quality food;
- make use of management techniques, industry math, and sanitation;
- construct menus and recipes;
- demonstrate employability skills;
- analyze food with regard to nutrition and dietary concerns; and
- utilize technology to analyze business problems and construct appropriate solutions.

PREREQUISITE:

AAS Degree: high school level Algebra I
